Contemplating the complexities of the bow and strings, Don Sherouse plays a violin. Skill, talent, and practice are among the many sides that perpetuate the creation of music.

Displaying their creative talents and originality, members of the Senior class, David Dowdy, Joeie Hayes, Ellen Barber, and Pat Foretich, skip across stage as they present the "Wizard of Warwick" to an assembly of the student body.

Curiously magnifying the minute details of a king snake, Ricky Oakley endeavors to gain further understanding of all sides of the world around him.

Astronaut Aldrin and America's flag grace the barren lunar landscape. An epitome of man's driving thirst to explore all sides of the universe, footsteps on the moon are symbols of his effort to satisfy one of his most ancient curiosities.

Pitting physical strength and skill against an opposing pitcher, Ronnie Staats strikes out. Learning from a small defeat, he contemplates final victory.

Silhouettes focus on Kathy Dedmond, Homecoming Queen candidate, as she is presented to the students. The culmination of hope, tension, and hair-teasing, vying for superlative recognition represents one aspect of competition.

Intense persuasion and self-conviction are masked in the face of Brenda Stevens as she makes an SCA campaign speech to the student body. Self-confidence and aggressiveness are two factors influencing political attainment.

Enduring the many sides of weather, Farmers promptly come and go. Two faculty members take shelter under an umbrella as they hurry to their cars.

Invisible waves of concentration permeate a quiet classroom as a student diligently writes during part of the daily agenda. Listening, writing, studying, and discussing are all essential aspects of the continuous routine of learning.

Students band together to express support of their team. Yelling, meeting previously unknown people, and seeing your close friends are customary rituals for after-school activities.

Each day the buses arrive to carry students home after a long day of school. Loaded with books, anxious Farmers join the orange caravan that leads to home. Establishing a time schedule is one aspect of life to which students must adapt.

Attired in the authentic uniforms of British grenadiers, herald trumpeters present a fanfare. The rigidly-formal, traditional aspect of Warwick's Old English heritage is effectively reflected by members of the band and bagpipe corps.

'iendly Farmer boy, Kenny Underwood, ad in hayseed duds, nonchalantly chews piece of grass. Once dominated by a rustic farming area, Warwick's now-generation calls itself the "Farmers," making a paradoxical personality.

Mockingly portraying the opposition's cheerleaders, Mike Hawkes and Butch Hamilton add their own touch of hilarity to the Homecoming Day assembly.

Warwick's Wizard Woos Farmer Excitement

Lions, scarecrows, and wizards frolicked on stage as the Senior Class presented "The Wizard of Warwick." Dancing Bethel bears were overrun by victoriously fighting Farmers in the Freshman Class skit. These and other performances, interspersed with cheers, conveyed to the student body the message, "Beat Bethel tonight!" Highlighting the homecoming assembly was the presentation of the court. Radiating from the spotlights, each girl, carrying a bouquet of gold chrysanthemums, walked down the aisle accompanied by the music of her choice. In conclusion Adrian Cook, 1968 Queen, reviewed on stage the court and their escorts.

Held the preceding night was the traditional, spirit-rousing bonfire. A Bethel Bruin was burned in effigy as the bonfire began. Farmer Cogbill, SCA President, clad in overalls and straw hat, with loudspeaker in hand, ignited the enthusiasm which remained throughout the weekend.

Beaming with the rapture of a newly-crowned queen, Kathy Coleman stands before the applauding football crowd.

Forming a ring in the half-light around the glowing bonfire, energetic Farmers cheer over the crackle of flames.

Crowning Terminates Regal Anxiety

"Good-bye, Cruel World!" This was the theme of the Senior Class homecoming display. Winning the twenty-five dollar award, the project was in competition with other stationary floats. Resulting from efforts of the Freshman Class was a bear downed by a Farmer plow. A "stewin' Bruin" was the sophomore contribution, while chicken wire and napkins yielded a gigantic football from the eleventh grade. The SCA supplied a decorative backdrop for the presentation ceremonies.

Providing music during half-time festivities, the band formed a semi-circle in the center of the field. Members of the court were presented, and each took a promenade down the runway. Preceded by a fanfare, former queen, Adrian Cook, relinquished her crown to Kathy Coleman, newly-proclaimed Homecoming Queen for 1969. At a semi-formal dance held the following night, Kathy and her court received their final recognition.

Hodgepodge of Spirit Posters Plasters Farmerland Hallways

"Deluge the school with posters!" Covering the walls with signs was the Wednesday event for Spirit Week. Traditionally held prior to the football game with arch-rival Ferguson, the week began with a request for every student at Warwick to wear the school colors, maroon and gold. On Tuesday clashing clothes displayed seasickness brought on by the Mariners. Thursday was Anti-blue Day. Any person not complying was automatically labeled a Finky Farmer.

As a fun finale, Friday was spotlighted as Farmer Day. The entire Farmer society came to school clad in rustic attire. During a spirit-rousing assembly filled with skits, the best-dressed Farmer Family was introduced, the Friendly Farmers chosen secretly each day were acknowledged, and the coveted Spiritoon was awarded to the Sophomore class for displaying the best overall effort toward promoting and reflecting school spirit.

Patiently answering the question of a puzzled student, Mrs. Isbell clarifies the grammatical structure of adverbs and adjectives.

Draped in sheets and using makeshift props, Loretta Reece, David Pillow, and Lynwood Wells sportingly enact the hole-in-the-wall scene from the mythological "Pyramus and Thisbe."

tudies of Elizabethan World nvigorate Senior Literature

"Phonemes, graphemes, mor-hemes . . . are you sure this is nglish?" Students became famiilar ith the modern jargon of basic rammar as they studied their native nguage. Teachers could supple-ent their lesson plans with umerous audio-visual aids. Tape corders and transparencies on pics such as composition, poetry, rammar, etymology, and basic ading were added to the facilities the English Department, headed Mrs. Blanche Taylor. Within the past two years over two thousand paperback books have been acquired to utilize in the individual classrooms. In memory of her father, an educator, Mrs. Elizabeth Harrison presented a stereo to the department. Those upperclassmen especially interested were able to take World Literature and Advanced Composition as supplementary courses. A Special Reading teacher was introduced to the department to help in the remedial courses.

Having discovered an amusing detail, June Gies expresses her inquisitive interest as she confers with Col. Luck.

Social Studies

Mice Act as Guinea Pigs for Team Teachers

"Two subjects, two teachers, one classroom?" Team-teaching was a unique opportunity offered to eighth graders. Taught by Mrs. Elizabeth Harrison and Mrs. Virginia Raine, English and U.S. History were combined into one course. Periods of history in both subjects were learned simultaneously. Modern European History, taught by Mr. William Hayes, was a new class open to seniors. Government students put their knowledge into practical use with a game entitled "Parallels." Classrooms became the setting of the United Nations' Security Council, where management and negotiations were handled by individual pupils. During Virginia's gubernatorial election, classes held mock conventions in which party platforms were presented. Directed by Col. Ellis Luck, the Social Studies Department succeeded in informing students in all areas of history, geography, and government, past and present.

Addressing fellow politicians, Walter Mt. Castle speaks for Mr. Battle in the mock gubernatorial convention in November.

Relaxing a moment from government, Mr. Hayes jokingly expounds his predictions for the weekend's football game.

Proving that two heads are sometimes better than one, Joe Cogbill and Win Hunter share ideas about a history lesson.

Optical Projects Display Geometric Principles

"I made my geometry project out of spaghetti!" Novel and interesting ideas were cleverly displayed as students worked on math projects throughout the year. Under the competent guidance of Mr. Neil Drummond, the Math Department strove to instill in students basic mathematical conceptions present in everyday living. Many classes were able to enjoy new books. Surpassing all other years, the calculus class consisted of thirteen accelerated members with lofty goals.

In March the National Mathematics Contest was administered to those in Algebra II or above. This gave students a chance to test their knowledge against others' on a nationwide basis. Mastering their studies, pupils found it beneficial to exceed the minimum requirements for graduation and to attempt the challenge of higher mathematical learning through the study of algebra, geometry, trigonometry, math analysis and calculus.

Forcefully explaining a difficult problem to a confused student, Miss Pursifull illustrates with an example on the board.

ith pencil in hand and abacus nearby, Ian Cooper tackles the calculation eeded to solve a geometric problem.

Surrounded by his questioning students, Mr. Hoerter patiently helps them to understand the complexities of problem solving.

Students Discover Puzzling Organic Spectra

As the odor of rotten eggs permeated the halls, everyone knew that it was lab day for chemistry students. Learning by doing was the principle involved in laboratory work. Using frogs as their specimens, biology classes practiced dissection. With the aid of new microscopes, things unseen to the naked eye were revealed by magnification. Polished, gleaming facilities enabled young scientists to pursue varous projects, many of which were exhibited in the annual Science Fair in February. Increasing interest resulted in the presentation of organic chemistry as a feature of advanced senior science. Working in conjunction to guide the department were Mrs. Betty Ward and Mr. James MacNeil. In addition to films and lectures, field trips to places of significance such as Washington, D. C. and NASA broadened students' knowledge in the ever-widening scope of science.

Somewhat hindered by her unco-operative mane of hair, a biology student carefully adjusts the lens of a microscope.

In the midst of a well-equipped chemistry laboratory, diligent students use common sense and slide rules to solve QPS problems.

Shock and dismay register upon the countenance of Debbie Frizzelle as the progress of her osmosis experiment takes an unexpected turn.

French — Spanish

Foreign Songs Resound Throughout Hallways

Fantasies of gold doubloons and pirate ships gave way to vocabulary lists and dictations. Those students diligently studying Spanish settled down to the routine of learning. With the aid of modern equipment, various facets of the country's culture occupied much class time. Oral and written exercises, the students' own compositions, and the occasional use of audio-visual equipment greatly supplemented the comprehension and analysis of all sides of the Spanish language.

Both traditional and contemporary songs provided a musical atmosphere in the French classrooms. Furnishing a base for the conversational portion of primary study was the language laboratory. Here students became accustomed to commonly-used grammatical structures. Advanced classes mastered the history of French literature. With the completion of each lesson, students progressed in an effort to master the study of French.

"Please don't cough into your mouthpiece!" Working in the language lab proved helpful for oral drills in vocabulary and pronunciation. Taught by Miss Janet Watkins, new to Warwick, students explored the many sides of German culture. Aiding pupils in their studies were films, tapes, and flash cards. For the first time in recent years, a third year class was taught; thus, the necessary books were added. Highlighting the year, a trip to the German Embassy in Washington, D. C. was planned for spring.

Colorful bits of history were included in the study of Latin. Students endeavored to understand and appreciate Roman and Greek literature, mythology, and civilization as origins influencing modern life. Two levels of Latin were offered to help students conquer derivatives, verb conjugations, and translations. Pupils discovered that Latin still lives in the world of today.

They also erested themselves in the techni- ties of generators and transmit- s. Basing their endeavors upon fundamentals of electricity ght in first year classes, advanced ils familiarized themselves with growing field of electronics.

Using their varied instruments, such as T-squares and triangles, drafting students gained valuable experience in mastering the art of mechanical drawing. Beginners learned basic procedures, progressing to more difficult architectural drafting in later years. Students of both drafting and electronics found that their knowledge in these fields would benefit them through practical use in future years.

Utilizing skills acquired in metalshop, Leonard Horn and Kyle Osborne complete the erection of the symbolic plow which now occupies a position of honor in front of the school building.

Woodshop — Metalshop

Shrill Screech of Machinery Pierces Silence

Hearing the steady banging of hammers, the tinny resonance of falling metal, and the constant drone of machines, one could surmise that shop students were busy. Articles ranging from book racks, pedestals, and Colonial hutch tables to more difficult pieces of furniture were made under the watchful supervision of woodshop instructor Mr. Earl Barton. Complimenting years of diligence, a Golden Hammer was awarded to those outstanding woodworking students who were accredited by their peers and their teachers.

Mr. Jerry Cooper joined the faculty this year to guide students in the fabrication of metal objects. Projects including simple household items and difficult ornamental pieces were designed to present pupils with the challenge and experience of working with metal. Special projects were entered in the Industrial Arts Fair. As always, special emphasis was placed on the importance of safe working habits and procedures. Pupils explored both sides, artistic and practical.

Wearing a protective mask, a student in metalshop welds a delicately curved, decorative piece of iron work.

Sawdust and miscellaneous scraps quickly disappear as woodshop students employ large brooms to clear the floor.

Aided by her visual illustration on the board, Mrs. Thompson carefully explains new data processing techniques.

peed Drills Produce Fleet-fingered Typists

Clerical classes gave students the opportunity to employ fundamental skills in daily practice. Using the classroom as a training center, pils were taught how to operate te many mechanical devices which vould prove helpful in future siness endeavors. The curriculum, eparatory for office employment, as under the supervision of Mr. bert Hasinger. Subjects offered s year included a one-semester urse in Data Processing. This was selected by students who wished to gain knowledge and experience in the expanding field of computer operations and who qualified by passing the required aptitude test. Students enrolled in business courses were subject to unlimited employment opportunities. Boys taking Vocational training spent half of their school day working at the Peninsula Vocational-Technical School as mechanical and electronical apprentices for various trades.

Drama — Speech

Constructive Criticism Aids Budding Orators

" 'How to Sneak Out of School' is my topic!" Speech students found an opportunity to express their ideas on almost any subject while learning the techniques of addressing an audience. Newcomers Miss Marcia Raveling and Miss Janet Watkins taught their classes methods of preparing various types of speeches and making them appeal to the interest of the public.

Drama students uncovered new phases of their talents as they learned to portray emotions and personality characteristics on stage. The course stressed an understanding of the history of drama and acting techniques with an emphasis on diction, pronunciation, and bodily gestures. During the year three plays were presented to give the students a chance to make use of their skills. Whether preparing for political or acting careers, students gained poise and composure useful in all facets of public speaking and dramatic presentation.

Using a cape and a hat to lend reality, Gayle Steinheusen presents an impromptu pantomine of "Little Red Riding Hood."

"It's not upside down; that's the ay it goes!" Warwick's art students xpressed their individual emotions nd ideas in their work. Under the ble guidance of Mr. Barclay heaks and Mr. Neil Britton, the Art epartment, acclaimed as one of ne largest and most complete on ne East Coast, instructed students in such courses as drawing, painting, printing, ceramics, weaving, jewelry making, and sculpture. New to the curriculum was a class in Basic Design taken by first year students. In addition, a new course, Art Enrichment, dealt with the appreciation of both past and contemporary works.

Students enrolled in music classes became skilled in all aspects of two primary fields: instrumental and vocal. A strings class was available to students interested in playing the violin, cello, or bass. Through the instruction of both music and art, Farmers learned to appreciate the value of creativity.

Home Economics

Pizza Pushers Victimize Farmer Halls

"Wonder if Abe Lincoln ever made a pizza?" Both seniors and sophomores had the opportunity to participate in co-ed programs in home economics this year. Students displayed their cooking ability by honoring the Senior Class at a Christmas tea. Upperclassmen learning home planning benefited by taking local field trips to Willis Wayside, Phelps Interiors, and Colonial Stores. In Williamsburg they viewed period furniture and various styles of architecture. Home economics students learned procedures in house buying through a seminar during which speakers elaborated on such topics as purchasing, insurance, mortgages, and deeds and titles. Under the guidance of department head Mrs. Effie Hoyle, students made progress in sewing, menu planning, and child care. Striving for excellence, they learned the art of home organization, an essential part of fast-moving modern living today.

Prospective Atlases Manipulate Universal Gym

"Squat, support, straddle, support, roll over, squat, stand." Physical education students madly tried to keep up with the "Club 15" exercise record. This year a change was made in the department's subject arrangement. Freshmen and juniors enjoyed a full year of physical education, while health courses were switched to the program for mice and sophomores. To compensate for this change, freshmen and juniors had three weeks of health related programs.

Coach Jim Snow headed the boys' division of the department, and Miss Roena McJunkin led the girls. A modern weight lifting apparatus was the universal gym, a complex conglomeration of weights, springs, wheels, levers, a pulleys. Available to the entire s dent body, it was found most va able for athletes. Other equipme such as new hockey sticks and wr tling mats, aided students in t enjoyment of the numerous p grams offered. Ringleaders Launch Co-operative Enterprises

"Number one! We clean up!" A never-ending string of projects played havoc with the neatness of the SCA room. Straightening files and cabinets, President Bill Cogbill, Vice-president Larry Weiss, Secretary Pat Hand, and Treasurer Renee Noland delved into their duties as officers.

With the valuable help of Mr. William Williams, the Executive Council co-ordinated all student affairs, thus constituting the administrative branch. Working closely with the officers was the Cabinet, composed of fourteen committee chairmen. Paralleling the structure of the U.S. government, a bicameral Congress demonstrated legislative powers. Class officers comprised the Senate while homeroom presidents and club representatives voted as the House. To complete the triangle of branches, the Honor Council exercised judicial power as the SCA guided all sides of student co-operation and Farmer endeavors.

Following the Tuesday morning routine of an 8:20 meeting in the auditorium Bill Cogbill presides over Congress.

Execs Relish Two-hour Fourth Period Span

Pacing all facets of student life, the SCA was constantly involved with innumerable activities. With their fourth period reserved for work, the Executive Council enjoyed the new luxury of a two-hour span during which they attended to their many duties. In addition to the upkeep of a showcase that housed displays pertinent to Farmer happenings, cafeteria bulletin boards were used for a calendar of events and recognition of Very Important Farmers throughout the year.

To share ideas with other schools, Farmer representatives attended the State SCA Workshop and the District Conference. WHS delegates led a lively discussion labeled "Student Rights vs. Administrative Power." Grievances and new ideas were discussed at weekly Congress meetings. As unprecedented projects were begun and improvements were made, the SCA proved to work not only for, but also with, the student body.

Mad Scientist Haunts Spook House

"Double, double, toil and trouble!" Farmers were transformed into witches or mad scientists as they aided the Women's Guild in raising money at a Halloween Haunted House. Another new project undertaken by the industrious SCA was that of working with the Marine Corps to collect Toys for Tots. The SCA room temporarily became Santa's Workshop as students displayed an overwhelming mixture of school and Christmas spirit. Competing with other peninsula schools used toys were collected and repairs were made. Over five hundred dollars were contributed with which the Executive Council went on a shopping spree for new toys that filled the auditorium stage, bringing

Quill and Scroll — Math Honor Society — National Honor Society

Honor societies gave deserved recognition to outstanding members of the student body. Established for the promotion of high school journalism, the Ruby Altizer Roberts Chapter of Quill and Scroll, sponsored by Miss Lois Callahan, was named for the poet laureate of Virginia. "We the Young People," a program held bi-weekly on WGH radio, was a continuing project. Also, the chapter sponsored a lecture on photo-journalism by Bud Rose, a representative from Taylor Publishing Company.

New to Warwick was the Mathematics Honor Society, a chapter of Mu Alpha Theta. Qualifying by enrollment in fifth semester or above college preparatory math and by maintainment of a B average, students were then selected by club members. Mrs. Martha Corell and President Harrison Hassell worked with the society to draw up a chapter constitution.

Inducting seniors in the fall and juniors in the spring, the National Honor Society recognized those students superior in character, scholarship, leadership, and service. Mrs. Josephine Muire served as sponsor, while Monnie Laughinghouse acted as president. Two conferences were attended, one in Williamsburg during November and one in Richmond during April. Serving Warwick, NHS members established a tutoring program designed to help students during study periods.

"How long do we cook the pic- es?" Drying photographs on a rotype plate was a new experi- ce for juniors. With the aid of nsor Mr. Leslie Howell, the seven ior editors performed their re- ctive duties and taught the seven ior apprentices the fundamentals uired for each job. Using "Both es Now" as their chosen theme, the staff began compiling the 1970 WARWICK.

The new position of Art-Photography Editor was initiated and consisted of planning the pictures for the book. When Editor-in-Chief Paula Henkel moved to Texas, Pat Hand replaced her. Janet Daniel filled Pat's post as Copy Editor. Two representatives attended a workshop at Camp Junaluska in the Smokey Mountains during the 1969 summer. A delegate was also sent to the Southern Interscholastic Press Association in Athens, Georgia. Earning A+ and All-American ratings, the 1969 WARWICK was sent to critiques around the country.

Several EARLE staff members attended an August journalism workshop at the Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond. They sent a representative to the Southern Interscholastic Press Association relocated in Athens, Georgia. Three consecutive editions of the EARLE were entered in competition with newspapers from schools having similar production techniques and enrollment. Money from advertisements was supplemented by funds from a September dance. Mrs. Pat Haley was advisor first semester, after which Mrs. Jimmie Espich took over. Prior to being on staff, students were required to take a journalism class. Reporting on all sides of Farmerland happenings related to current student activities, the EARLE staff kept its finger on the pulse of Warwick.

LOUGH Staff

iterary Talents Exposed in Two Publications

Representing the creativity of the ntire student body, the 1969-70 LOUGH Staff produced two issues Warwick's award-winning literary agazine. All interested pupils were ked to submit their original short ories, plays, poems, essays, feares, and art work for both the win- r and spring editions. Each conibution was judged in comparison others by students on the same ade level. Under the sponsorship Miss Lois Callahan, the thirty-two members of the Advanced Composition class filled the positions on the staff. Serving as co-editors on one of the largest staffs in the history of the magazine, which was compiled during and after school, were Dwight Foster and David Boykin. A representative from the PLOUGH staff was sent to Athens, Georgia, where the literary works were entered in competition at the Southern Interscholastic Press Association.

Start of Music Modernization Prompted by Students' Pleas

"By the center, quickstep, march!" Giving commands was the duty of Drum Major Danny Dunlap. Mr. Lyle Smith directed the band, while Keith Stiles served as president. In the Farmer Day Assembly, members performed a humorous skit depicting a typical band party. A high standard of excellence was shown in the numerous awards won. The Grenadier Band marched in local parades, the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Grand Feature Parade in Winchester, the George Washington's Birthday Parade in Alexandria, and the Azalea Festival and Oyster Bowl Parades in Norfolk. In addition the band presented a half-time performance for home football games. Highlighting the year was the traditional British Military Tatoo given in the gym in April. A Christmas Concert, special reviews at Fort Eustis and Jamestown, and a concert honoring band seniors rounded out the year's activities.

Training an alert ear to hear all instrumental sections individually as well as collectively, Mr. Smith conducts a Christmas concert.

Squealing Skirls of Scotland Emitted from Goatskin Pipes

"What part of Scotland are you girls from?" Quite often, the Bagpipe Band appeared to be so authentic that many people mistook them for a band from Scotland. Bagpipe ribbons made from the traditional plaid design and newly-purchased, original Scottish tartan pins contributed to the authenticity of the uniform. Leading this colorful group were Drum Major Kenny Blanton, Pipe Major Cindy Smiley, Pipe Sergeant Susan Burden, and head dancers Virginia Tichenor and Jenny VanArsdale. The Bagpipe Band marched behind the Grenadiers in parades, football games, and other performances. They staged two Saint Andrew's Day shows, one at Jamestown and one at the First Presbyterian Church in Newport News. In addition to television shows in Petersburg and a performance for the State School Board, dancers from the pipe band performed for the mice on Orientation Day at Warwick.

In their first appearance in Todd Stadium, the Maroon Band joins the Grenadiers in the pageantry of the Ferguson game.

In its debut as an accomplished musical group, the Brass Ensemble is led by Mr. Loyd in their opening repertoire.

Previous Grad Returns to Instruct Musicians

"You mean I have to swing my ·m all the way up to my shoul- ·er?" Novel experiences, which ·on became routine, paved the way having a well-organized band. eturning to Warwick, Mr. Harry yd, a former student, directed the aroon Band's activities. As Drum ajor, Jimmy Warlitner com- anded the organization in all arching situations. Participating in e Christmas Parade, the Christmas ncert, the Armed Forces Day Pa- de, and the Columbus Day Parade in which they won third place, the Maroon Band became a unified group. At the last Varsity football game of the season, they had the opportunity of performing with the Grenadier Band and Bagpipe Band. With each performance, they neared the goal of perfecting musical technique. Presenting half-time shows at all JV football games, Maroon Band members learned the basic fundamentals of being accomplished musicians.

"We are TV stars! Anyone care or a personal autograph?" Extending their singing talents to the viewing public, the A Cappella Choir resented a concert for Cablevision December. Several performances were held during the year including he Fall, Christmas, Windy and pring concerts. Christmas and Valntine seasons saw the presentation f the vocalists in assemblies designed for the student body. In a ep rally they performed a comical kit depicting the night's football ame with Kecoughtan. In addition their singing activities, the A appella Choir found leisure time to avel to Lexington and Washon, D.C.

Scrambling to get into position before the curtain opened, Male and Girls' Choruses made each presentation a special event. Under the able leadership of Mr. William Tew, students became familiar with the numerous fundamental aspects of music. Memory work was necessary, for performances required eye contact with the director. They spent much time in preparation for their Fall, Christmas, Windy, and Spring Concerts, open to the public.

In new maroon sweaters, the Male Chorus proudly performed with vibrant voices. Co-ordinating the group's activities was the job of President Mickey Gzell. In the fall they challenged Ferguson's Male Chorus to a football game. With pastel colored dresses as their trademark, the Girls' Chorus combined a wide range of voices to create a harmonious sound. President Beverly Lokey capably performed the duties necessary to conduct the group's affairs.

"Fe, fi, fo, fum, we've got soul, now you get some!" New cheers and chants were learned during July at a clinic in Virginia Beach. In order to meet the expenses for this workshop, maroon and gold cushions were sold in conjunction with the Senior Class, and bake sales were held.

Immediately following the selection of cheerleaders in May of 1969, co-captains Mary Albertson and Susan Kuhns were elected by the girls. Aided by sponsors Miss Mary McClenny and Mrs. Frances Scott, practices began. During pep rallies candy favors were given to ball players as they were introduced. Spirited skits performed by various organizations boosted morale prior to games. Beginning with basketball season, new maroon and gold pleated dresses were designed. Under a revised constitution, probation and a new demerit system were established. Traditionally, every game was ended with the cheer "Are You Proud of Your School?"

Co-ed Caroling Christens Christmas Seaso

To unlock the world of service— a key. Often working together, the Key Club and the Keyettes served both the school and the community in numerous ways. They collected food for a family at Thanksgiving and sold poppies for the Veterans' Administration. Aiding the Guidance Office, the Keyettes decorated their bulletin board, while the Key Club helped with the vocational sessions featuring guest speakers.

Key Club members found time once a month to attend church together. Delegates were sent to the District Convention in Norfolk and to the International Convention in Cleveland. As fund-raising projects they sold megaphones and sponsored a dance in the winter.

Greeting the teachers at the b ginning of the year, the Keyette sent them notes with a daisy. A Christmas they gave money don tions and staged a party for we fare children. On various occasion they held card sales, and in th Farmer Day assembly they pr sented a western skit depicting victory over Ferguson.

"You Key Clubbers just wait 'til next year! 0-30!" Though the Key Club—Hi-Y football game was disappointing to the Hi-Y, members refused to let their spirit be broken. As projects, the club sold poppies for veterans and collected for ALSAC. Representing the seniors, Brenda Meredith was crowned Miss Warwick Hi-Y at the annual Christmas Dance featuring Willie T. and the Impressions. Competing with the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y in basketball games was the Jr. Hi-Y, composed of mice and freshman boys.

Collecting donations during the Veteran's poppy sale, girls of the Tri-Hi-Y reaped in more money than any school club. Participating in many community projects, the club's schedule included visits to Patrick Henry Hospital and to the Virginia School for the Deaf, Dumb, and Blind. Warwick was the scene for the District Convention in which Tidewater schools participated to elect officers for the Model General Assembly. Meeting their responsibilities of service, the clubs combined fun with endeavor.

Speaking in the AFS assembly, Mrs. Hughes fondly relates her experiences in Spain during a foreign exchange program.

Gunilla Brings Swedish Customs to Farmers

"Walk together, talk together, o ye peoples of the earth; then and only then shall we have peace." In the fall AFS assembly Mrs. Jacqueline Stone recited the American Field Service motto while explaining her summer in France as a student. This program opened AFS Week during which the annual bond sale was held. President Mary Murphy helped to organize such activities as sponsoring two dances and a spring talent show. Gunilla Palmkvist, Swedish exchange student, found a home with her American sister, Barbara Edberg, and became involved in numerous aspects of Warwick's society. The AFS joined the adult chapter in raising money to send junior Janet Brockmiller abroad for the summer; thus, reciprocating the exchange program.

Reorganization was the project of the French Club. A Christmas party, complete with French carols, began the year's activities.

"Queen, Rook—4! Stalemate!" Often the most frustrating chess games were those that ended in a draw. However, led by Pete Richardson, the Warwick team outmoved their opponents for numerous victories. Members selected for the team were the top five players in the Chess Club.

Winning six trophies and four awards in the Chesapeake Invitational Debate was indicative of the Debate Team's continuous efforts. Coached by Miss Waverly Hundley, team members attacked the pros and cons of the year's national topic, "Resolved: That Congress Should Prohibit United States Unilateral Military Intervention in Foreign Countries."

Handling the lights and public address system was the job of the Sight and Sound Corps. Their presence being necessary for activities in the auditorium, members performed their duties quietly and efficiently as "behind-the-scene" men.

Yuletide Ornaments, Goodies Garnish Lounges

"Who needs to learn how to get along with his family?" FHA programs each month dealt with problems pertinent to family life. Projects included a tea for the teachers on Valentine's Day and a spring picnic for the members. Guided by sponsors Mrs. Greta McClellan and Mrs. Marcia Black and President Cindy Hill, the Future Homemakers of America recognized National FHA Week in April.

Attending the State Convention in Richmond and participating in teaching programs at elementary schools, the Future Teachers of America discovered both sides of teaching: hard work and immeasurable rewards. During National Education Week, a department was spotlighted each day. As a Christmas project, the teachers' lounges were decorated and refreshments were provided. Sponsored by Miss Alice Peterson and Mrs. Karen Williams and led by President Debbie Johnson, the FTA celebrated its tenth anniversary at Warwick.

"Apple cider? Real folk music? All this and popcorn too!" Dubbed "The Farmer's Barn," a night of musical entertainment was sponsored by the Drama Club. As a folk-singing duo set the mood with music, waitresses served refreshments. Through helping with the stage crew, acting, costuming, and learning other related aspects of the theater, the club's members earned points for entrance into the National Thespian Society.

Intent in forming a lasting organization, Forensics members remained active during the club's second year of existence. A news digest entitled "The Farmer's Almanac" was taped weekly to be broadcast on WVEC-FM radio. All students were invited to attend meetings held for practice in oral interpretation and public speaking. Most of the year was spent in preparation for the Peninsula District Group 1-A Forensics Meet held at Warwick during the month of March.

Gardeners Fill Leisure Time Improving Oriental Courtyard

"If I were earning the minimum wage, I would have made $386!" Such thoughts occupied the minds of Science Club members as they spent free hours working in the courtyard garden. Attractive elements consisted of walkways, flowering shrubs, a fountain with a reflecting pool, and guinea pigs and rabbits. In February the club held the Science Fair, aided by sponsors Mrs. Betty Ward, Miss Mary Benson, and Mr. William Rorer. Members entered projects in the Virginia Academy of Science and the Tidewater Science Congress. Receiving top honors, Mike Spade went to Boston in December to participate in the National Science Convention.

Any student interested was eligible to join the Health Careers Club. Among the numerous projects, members visited hospitals, held a Christmas party for Salvation Army children, and exhibited a booth in the Health Careers Fair in May at Hampton's Mercury Mall.

"Head up, back straight . . . and knees still!" Involving months of preparation, the Miss Warwick Beauty-Talent Pageant, sponsored by the Science Club, focused on a new phase of school life. With a theme of "Holiday in White," the pageant offered competition among twenty girls sponsored by various school organizations. Rating the girls was a distinguished panel of judges including Miss Virginia Sydney Lee Lewis and Congressman Thomas Downing. WAVY-TV's Dick Lamb was master of ceremonies, aided by Mrs. John Morello, fashion co-ordinator for Nachman's Department Store. The girls modeled sportswear and white evening gowns. Ten semi-finalists presented their individual talents. Debbie Cochran, voted by the girls as "Miss Congeniality," was presented with a silver bowl. Varsity Football

Trio Bags All-Peninsula Honors

Combining reverence with sportsmanship, the Varsity Football team continued the tradition of having a short prayer before and after each game. With practice beginning in the heat of August, the Fighting Farmers had time to prepare themselves for the upcoming season. Excelling on the field were the four co-captains: Bill Cogbill, Jon Hatch, Randy Jackson, and Jim Snow. Coaching the boys through their wins and losses were Mr. James Bullock, Mr. Randy Harrell, Mr. Dennis Toth, and head Coach Jim Snow. Jimmy Kipper received the Hi-Y Sportsmanship Award, while Jim Snow was named Outstanding Lineman and Jon Hatch was tagged Outstanding Back. Jon Hatch, Jerry Horrell, and Jim Snow were selected to the coaches' All-Star team. The season ended beneficially as the entire student body realized and appreciated the value of school athletics in building sportsmanship

Stellar Defensive Maneuvers Stymied By Scoring Drought

"Ready! Six-two, red 38! Set! Go! o! GO!" Even complex signals om quarterback Joey Ferree could ot spark the offense above a 4-5-1 ecord. In the opening game they cored late in the fourth quarter to e Carver. Defeating Denbigh, War- vick scored two touchdowns in hirty seconds. The following week, Varwick topped Kecoughtan, limit- ng them to one touchdown. The armers next faced Newport News; espite determined efforts, Warwick lost. For Homecoming, the Farmers took on Bethel, but were defeated. The next two games starred the defense as Pembroke and York were conquered. With a fired-up team the Farmers were ready for powerful Hampton. This game proved disappointing for Warwick, as did the James Blair game. Preceded by Farmer Week and a special steak dinner for the team, the clash with archrival Ferguson ended in a heartbreaking defeat for Warwick.

Caught while attempting a pass, Joey Ferree tries to retain possession of the ball as Carver's tacklers rush him.

JV Football

Despite Concentrated Efforts, Opposition Provides Setbacks

"Get your shoe outa my mouth!" With spirit and a sense of humor, the JV football team endeavored to make their season a success. Coach Tim Walter instructed the eager group of mini-farmers in basic football tactics and skills in the hope that they would someday be Varsity stars. With this goal in mind, the rugged playing of the disappointing 2-4-1 season was regarded as valuable experience. The boys sacrificed much of their leisure time to participate in the long and exhausting hours of practice necessary to prepare them for the fast paced season. Rising early on Saturdays, JV players readied themselves for the morning games against their formidable area opponents. By practicing fundamental plays and strategy, Eighth and Ninth Grade Football team members received the needed experience to join the JV team. After-school games provided them with perception of team cooperation and sportsmanship.

Under the close scrutiny of the referee, Ronnie Hatchett springs to catch a flat-pass.

Eyes shadowed and chin strap loosened, Donnie Hatchett silently ponders all sides of a Saturday morning confrontation.

Harriers Jaunt over Rough Museum Terrain

"On your mark . . . get set . . . BANG!" The Cross Country Track team constantly trained for various local and state competitive meets. Rain or shine, dedicated team members jogged daily miles to obtain top physical condition. This strenuous preparation proved effective as the tracksters raced through Mariner's Museum during home meets. Urging the team to exert running power to their fullest extent was Coach Jimmy Johnson. In recognition for their outstanding performances, seniors Ron Vick and Dirl Riddle obtained places on the All-Peninsula District and All-Eastern Regional teams. Ron captured fourth place in the district and fifth in the regional, while Dirl finished fourteenth in both. Led by co-captains Steve Pittman and Dirl Riddle, the harriers tallied a dual meet record of 5-2. They came in tenth place in the race for the coveted state championship.

Speedy Sprinting Springs Successful Season

"Let's see, that last one brings the casualty list up to 257!" Unwary Farmers found navigating in the halls after school a dangerous experience as the indoor trackmen raced precariously through the corridors in daily practices. Guided by coaches Jimmy Johnson and Dennis Toth, the team utilized the benefits of their training, completing the season with a record of two wins and two losses. In the district meet they placed eighth. Warwick had three entries at the state meet: mile relay team; Ken Wall, broad jump; and Steve Pittman, two mile run. Captains Dirl Riddle and Howard Hamilton served as leaders of the team, fostering spirit and unity.

With practice beginning early to insure maximum preparation, the Outdoor Track team found themselves ready to take on their scheduled opponents in a winning style. Aided by coaches Jimmy Johnson, Dennis Toth, and Neil Hodges, the boys had high hopes for success.

Observing a practice sprinting session, Coath Johnson and Coach Toth size-up the results at the finish line.

Varsity Basketball

Small Stature Hinders Offense

"All we need is a couple of seven-foot Watusi transfers!" Lacking height, the basketball team spent many after-school hours practicing group set-ups and improving foul shots. Needing offensive power, the team turned their efforts toward defensive maneuvers and ball control. Coach Bob Shamblin, new to Warwick, employed many different styles of play in preparation for the season. New warm-up jackets and away uniforms were added to the team's outfits. The boys, the majority of which were juniors, were captained by senior Bob Fairbairn and co-captained by junior Joey Ferree. Two key players were absent part of the season. Senior Ron Vick was out with a sprained ankle, and junior Frankie Sublett missed the first half of the season due to a school transfer. Although the Farmers were small in stature, they made up the deficit with hustle and spirit.

As fellow team members and spectators intently focus on the ball, Craig Nuckles takes a shot during a game with Newport News.

Varsity Basketball

Deep Freeze Mystifies Opponents

"Beware of the Warwick Deep Freeze!" The Farmers had their opponents waiting for action as they employed slow-down playing strategy. In their first Bethel encounter, Warwick was defeated 13-7 with Joey Ferree scoring all seven points on foul shots. In the opener the Farmers dropped a close decision to Newport News. This contest started a losing skein of eight games. During this time the boys lost by two points to arch-rival Ferguson in the closing seconds. Against Huntington the team scored their first win. Scoring twenty-eight points, Joey Ferree starred in the triumph. In the second half of the season the Farmers played many close games, but did not succeed in victory. Warwick was defeated by the Pembroke Pirates in the last six seconds. Despite the 1-17 record the year was not a complete loss, for it was essentially a building period for the team.

JV Basketball

Sharpshooters Vary Captains Each Game

"Foul on number two-six, blue. Blocking! Number four-five shooting one!" Such was the referee's jargon during the course of the numerous Junior Varsity basketball games. With the stress on defense, the first half of the season ended in four victories including one over arch-rival Ferguson. The Blair game was won by forfeit. Outhustling their opponents, the cagers ended the year with a 9-9 record. Instead of co-captains, honorary team captains were selected for each game. All contests were played on Tuesday, Friday, and Saturday evenings immediately preceding those of Varsity. Coach Neil Hodges assisted the boys in making the season an overall success.

On the eighth and ninth grade team, boys were given an opportunity to gain experience needed for both JV and Varsity playing. Aided by Coach Tim Walter, the boys ended the season with a 5-10 record.

Springing above the outstretched arm of a Hampton opponent, Warren Miller executes a scoring attempt.

Reverse Decisions Bring WHS District Title

"He's all twisted up like a pretzel!" Warwick matmen often got tied up in their struggles as they attempted to pin the opposition. Daily practices proved beneficial in perfecting the necessary stances, holds, and maneuvers. Coaches Paul Pcsolinski and Dennis Hedgepeth worked with the grapplers as they prepared themselves for the various levels of competition. Co-captains selected by the team members were Eddie McCulloch and Jerry Horrell.

Disagreement over the match between Warwick and Hampton ended with Warwick as the District champions. The Farmers finished with an 8-1 district record. Jerry Horrell, having a 13-0 record, tied for the topmost peninsula ranking. Ten boys participated in the regional meet which took place at Lake Taylor High School in Norfolk. Farmer seniors Jerry Horrell and Kenny Preston entered state competition held in Fairfax, Virginia in February.

Facing the opposition eye-to-eye, Steve Carmean is tensed for action as each awaits the first move of a match.

Strokers, Racketeers Mob Area Competition

"Forty-love! Man, what a way to play!" Often seen on the courts of Warwick, the tennis team commenced the 1970 season with the experience of several players. With fleet feet, agile bodies, and an objective to win, the team entered each game. Profiting from invigorating practice sessions after school, the racketeers, coached by Mr. Tim Walter, represented Warwick in many exciting matches against area schools.

Again finding the Newport News Municipal Golf Course advantageous, members of the golf team strove to perfect their driving and putting. Coach Wilbur Thompson proved again to be a reliable help in organizing practice and matches. Unhindered by prevailing weather conditions, the boys could be found teeing-off during rain or shine. Discovering the largest amount of competition among themselves, players worked to improve their rank within the team.

Seasoned Sluggers, Pitchers Boost State Champion Hopes

"Who says I can't call a ball on a pitching machine?" As training began with the chilly first of March, the Varsity baseball team members concentrated their efforts toward perfecting their skills, often with the aid of the automatic pitching machine. Daily afternoon practices were necessary for the boys to achieve and surpass their high standing of the previous year. With a district champion pitching squad returning as veteran players, the Farmers placed the majority of their strength in this area. Several former JV players moved to the Varsity team this year. Sunny afternoon games saw the Warwick bleachers filled with cheering fans. Aiding by the guiding knowledge and experience of Coach Jim Snow, the team worked to develop their abilities in baseball strategy. As the season progressed, spirit on the parts of both the student body and the players increased along with the game's excitement.

Diamond-dwellers Launch Hardhitting Tactics

"H-e-e-e-e-e-e's safe!" This strange sound was often heard climaxing an exciting dash for home plate during a Junior Varsity baseball game. As basketball season was concluded, baseball began. The determined team painstakingly prepared for a competitive spring. Readying their spirits and bodies for the entire season, the line-up was carefully drilled under the competent direction of Coach Randy Harrell. While some experienced members returned to the squad this year, the majority of the team had little background in the necessary skills and features of competitive high school baseball. Throughout the entire season, area schools confronted the hard-hitting, spirited squad. At the scheduled Tuesday and Saturday games each spectator could see that the 1970 Junior Varsity diamond - dwellers had presented the result of strain in a springtime struggle.

Camper Caper Kindles Fellowship, Adventure

In addition to the numerous academic activities offered at Warwick, many girls found time to represent their school in athletic competition. The sports in which the girls took part included field hockey, basketball, volleyball, softball, tennis, track and field, gymnastics, and archery. Participation came from skilled and unskilled girls of all grade levels. President Janis Rowe and sponsor Miss Carolyn Stephenson guided GRA along the path of a successful year. With a strong desire to achieve, members plunged into a variety of money-making projects, the largest of which was a student-faculty basketball game. They also sold jackets to raise money for new hockey uniforms. As a different activity, a spring camping trip was undertaken. To round out the year, the annual picnic was held during which awards were presented and rising officers were installed.

Warwick girls defend their goal as they meet the plaid-skirted Christopher Newport team on the hockey field.

GRA

Rule Changes Alter Strategy

"Hey, we're going to play basketball just like the pros!" This year GRA members received the novel experience of playing basketball according to professional league rules. This sport, as well as volleyball, was played with schools only in the immediate area. The Varsity field hockey team, coached by Miss Carolyn Stephenson, journeyed to Williamsburg to take part in the Tidewater Allied Field Hockey Association Tournament. This activity, of which Warwick was co-host, provided a successful ending to the season. Starting practice in November was the gymnastics team. Directed by Miss Jackie Walker, they participated in the state gymnastics meet in Roanoke. Another sports activity performed on the state level was archery. Aided by Miss Roena McJunkin, the team sent the scores of the top four Warwick girls to the State Telegraphic Meet.

"This . . . stands for Farmer victory!" By forming a V and an F with his fingers, Mr. James Starboard, principal, exemplified his enthusiastic support for all facets of Warwick life. An assembly featuring a popular, "now generation" band, the Sheepherders, began a flow of appreciation and respect from the student body which lasted throughout the year. Newly appointed assistant principal, Mr. John Tudor, paid strict attention to boys' conduct and discipline. Miss Ellena Armistead held the position of Dean of Girls. Battling constant problems, this efficient team coped with complex teacher-student relationships. They contributed imagination and concern to the spirit of daily life as well as to extracurricular activities. Furthering co-operation and understanding, meetings of the Parent-Teacher Association extended insight into the "way it is" at Warwick High School.

Guidance Office

Test Program Fatigues Mentalities

"What courses do I take if I intend to be an antiwater-and-air-pollution conservationist?" Guidance counselors found themselves baffled in answering questions about newly derived professions that have evolved in the modern world of today. Aiding counselors in their task of guiding students in their future endeavors and aspirations were a battery of tests. Both the Kuder and the GATB tests revealed vocational preference. Juniors and seniors took an assortment of college boards including PSAT, SAT, CEEB, and ACT. National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Tests, administered in March, were open to juniors. DAT, SCAT, and STEP, given to mice, freshmen, and sophomores, measured achievement and aptitude. Current information on colleges and occupations was available for interested students. Keeping the office running smoothly was department head, Mrs. Josephine Muire.

Office — Clinic

Comforting Concern Greets Aspirin Seekers

Student problems, teacher dilemmas, and piles of paperwork were efficiently handled by the office staff. Mrs. Jane Burton assumed the position of the principal's personal secretary, while keeping the money records straight was the duty of Mrs. Martha Murray. Mrs. Frances Dedmond, Mr. John Tudor's secretary, was receptionist and insurance manager. Newcomer Mrs. Mary Smith worked as Miss Ellena Armistead's secretary. Typing bulletins, handling report cards, taking care of substitute teachers were among her numerous responsibilities. Mrs. Elizabeth Knies headed the IBM department, coping with the problems presented by the overcrowded enrollment exceeding two thousand students. The task of activities director was that of Mr. William Williams. Aiding the sick fully consumed the time of Mrs. Matilda Humphries, school nurse, whose "home base" was the clinic where students could find help.

Custodians

Unpredictable Air Conditioner Poses Temperature Problems

Handling the repair and maintenance of everything from pencil sharpeners to thermostats, the custodian staff worked heartily throughout the year. Keeping the heating and air conditioning operating at the proper time was a never-ending battle. Not only did the janitors have to arrive early each morning to prepare the building for school, but they also cleaned up after night classes and special events. Mr. William Ervin supervised the staff's work. Efficiency was a necessity to insure the cleanliness of restrooms, halls, and classrooms. Sweeping, washing and waxing floors, emptying trash cans, shining windows, and locking gates each afternoon were among the jobs of the staff. Numerous storage closets were scattered throughout the building to keep cleaning facilities handy. The upkeep was definitely one side of Warwick; the custodians made this possible through their diligence.

Cafeteria

Extra Goodies Delight Farmer Taste

"Hey, we get free ice cream today!" This was one of the greatly appreciated treats offered during the year by the busy cafeteria staff. Under the capable direction of Mrs. Viola London, the staff of twenty was always working to prepare either breakfast or lunch for both the students and the faculty.

After battling hunger and long lines, famished Farmers reach for their hot lunches.

Relaxing briefly during his thirty-five minute lunch period, John Leftwich leisurely enjoys his nourishing food.

Approximately two hundred breakfasts and 1250 lunches were served to hungry Farmers each day, necessitating complete organization and quick preparation on the part of the competent cooks. When the staff found themselves with more work than they could handle, Special Education boys were hired.

This year the menus had a great deal of variety, with special meals planned for holidays. Devoting their extra time, the cafeteria staff prepared food for banquets and other functions. Although most students paid for their lunches, those who could not afford to were given free hot meals.

Members of the cafeteria staff are, row 1: Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Wiseman, Doris Bryant, and Marie Chapman. Superlative Attributes Earn Acknowledgement

Combining her artistic and journalistic talents, BARBARA ANN EDBERG served as editor of the Senior Spoof Annual and Art-Photography Editor of the WARWICK. In recognition of her work, Barbara was inducted into Quill & Scroll. She was the American "sister" to the foreign exchange student. In her senior year she served as president of Tri-Hi-Y and District secretary - treasurer. Among her future plans, Barbara has decided to go into the field of art.

With sports as one of his major interests, ROBERT EARL FAIRBAIRN was captain of the Varsity basketball team and enjoyed baseball and cross country track. As a delegate to Boy's State and the SCA State Convention, Bob displayed the qualities which prompted his induction into the National Honor Society. Putting his leadership skills to use, he was vice-president of the Key Club and sergeant-at-arms of the Monogram Club.

As a member of the Debate Team, MILTON COLEMAN WALSH applied his talents to activities outside of class. Inducted into the National Honor Society as a junior, Coleman served on the Honor Council in his eighth, ninth, and tenth grades. He was president of the Key Club and Lt. Governor of the District. Enjoying music as a pianist and singer, Coleman was a member of the A Cappella Choir. His future plans include attendance at the University of Richmond.

As Editor-in-Chief of the WARWICK and SCA secretary, PATRICIA DIANA HAND incorporated all her leadership qualities at these demanding posts. For three years she found time to be a cheerleader and a band member. Inducted into the National Honor Society as a junior, Pat also was a member of Quill & Scroll, the Math Honor Society, and Keyettes. She was chairman of "We the Young People" radio show. Pat has been accepted at the College of William and Mary.

Leading the student body as a cheerleader, KATHLEEN HARRISON COLEMAN carried her natural enthusiasm into all her school activities. Kathy was a delegate to Girl's State and the SCA Federation, as well as class vice-president for three years. As a junior she was tapped into the National Honor Society. Much of her time was spent working on various SCA committees. Kathy was the recipient of the DAR Citizenship Award.

Serving as president of the National Honor Society and vice-president of Quill & Scroll, MONNIE LAUGHINGHOUSE, III, strived to inspire the student body with the ideals of the societies. Creative writing was an interest of Monnie, who won the essay contest, "Freedom's Challenge," as a junior. He held positions on the PLOUGH staff in his junior and senior years. He has been accepted by the University of Virginia.

Seniors Stake Claim for Coveted Top Rung

"After a long climb, we've finally reached the top!" Reveling in the prestigious position of being the oldest members of the student body, the Senior Class moved rapidly through its most important year. Such projects as selling Farmer cushions, sponsoring dances, and producing a hilarious spoof annual were undertaken. The class of '70 was led by President Helen McAtamney, Vice-president Mary Albertson, and Secretary-treasurer Barbara Edberg. Homecoming brought out the best of senior talents as they presented their award-winning skit and float. Representatives on the court were Kathy Dedmond, Brenda Meredith, Renee Noland, and Queen Kathy Coleman. Assisted by sponsors Mr. Earl Barton, Mr. Kenneth Bowen, Miss Mary McClenny, and Mrs. Frances Scott, the class remained united through Leadership Day, Senior Day, the banquet, the Prom, and finally, graduation.

Leading the Class of '70 through its final year at Warwick are President Helen McAtamney, Vice-president Mary Albertson, and Secretary-treasurer Barbara Edberg.

Dear Lester Wolf, alias Mr. L. Howell words can't express the mixed feelings I have about "A" staff + school in general. In a way I really hate to leave W.H.S. but in another, there's a bigger road to walk down - COLLEGE... Remember all those thousands of negatives - tears + all. and above all remember our fantastic "Spoof ANNUAL" with pictures of our heroic dedicatee. Think of Gurilla + write to her when she leaves - "Gosh I hate to see her leave me" The month of June 1970 will surely be a month of tears. Thank you for all you've taught me + for putting up with my many, many (unreal) moods and also for the opportunity to go to Annualistics. Annual staff is great + I consider it an honor to work with such great girls - woops (Ed + Hugh) and especially "You"

Take care this summer + May God Bless + keep you + your family. Looking forward to better things at Robinson Burton.

With much respect and Love
Barbara Edberg

Gigantic Football Emerges as Field Decoration

"This big brown potato just happens to be a football!" Quantities of papier-mache and much effort went into the Junior Class Homecoming project. Karen Kincaid and Joanne Whaley were selected as representatives on the court. Skillfully led by President Wesley Wornom, Vice-president Barbara Hand, and Secretary-treasurer Patty Burnett, the class of '71 faced their new responsibilities. As always, their primary function was that of presenting the Senior Prom. An added problem was finding a suitable location other than the cafeteria. The arrival of class rings was a long-awaited feature of the year, celebrated by the traditional Ring Dance. To further display their undying school spirit, the industrious juniors constructed a Farmer to preside over the Ferguson football game. With the help of Mrs. Carla Shupe and Mr. Curtis Campbell, these and numerous other projects guaranteed a success.

Pom-pom Pumpers Gradually Reap Profit

"Pom-poms for sale! Free confetti . . ." As the class of '72 acquired sophomore status, its industrious members delved into money-making projects. Capably led by President James Bowers, Vice-president Bev Mann, and Secretary-treasurer Vicki McKee, the class proved to have avid workers. Devoting part of their vacation time, they operated a candy stand during summer school. Adult guidance was found in sponsors Mrs. Carol Wagner and Mr. Fred Gebron.

Homecoming festivities plunged the class into a whirlwind of activity. Pam Gerringer was chosen as their representative on the court, and a Bethel Bruin cooking in a constituted the sophomores' sta ary float. Imaginative class m bers performed entertaining for the Homecoming Day Asser depicting a locker room scene a TV commentary. The sophom honored the seniors by presen a banquet in April.

Dressed in semi-formal attire, Stuart Noland and his date move with the music at the Homecoming Dance.

Leaders of the class of '72 are President James Bowers, Vice-President Bev Mann, and Secretary-treasurer Vicki McKee.

Reviewing their memorable experiences and mistakes from the previous year, the ninth graders strove to make a permanent place for themselves at Warwick. To celebrate Homecoming, they made a large, papier-mache Bethel Bruin with a plow through its stomach. Karen Lefkowitz had the honor of being the freshman representative on the court. During both Homecoming and Farmer Day Assemblies, ninth grade skits were performed for student enjoyment.

Piloted by President Kay Tarpley, Vice-president Mary Murphy, and Secretary-treasurer Charlene Crowell, the class initiated money-making endeavors for the year, including a January dance. Keeping an accurate record of the happenings was the job of the Scrapbook Committee, headed by co-chairmen Cindy Hill and Trina Jackson. As class sponsor, Miss Kathryn Rogers donated her time, efforts, and ideas to help make the freshmen's year a successful, exciting adventure.

Ingenious Campaign Speeches Spark Election

With brave faces, quivering hearts, and shaking knees, the eighth graders joined the student body of Warwick. As new high school students, they accepted responsibility and thrust themselves into numerous Farmer activities. As their first united effort, the mice campaigned for the important positions of holding class offices. President David Jolliffe led his class with the assistance of Vice-president Mike Gillen, while Jan Naumann served as secretary-treasurer. Mouse sponsor, newcomer Mr. Tim Walter, steered the class in the right direction with careful advice and with contagious enthusiasm.

Joining in all school-wide activities, the eighth graders chose Beth Crickenberger to represent them on the Homecoming court. Getting a head start with their money-making projects, the eager class sponsored a dance in the spring, and as time progressed and circumstances demanded they organized into committees. Working together they made their niche at WHS.

Mr. Howell,

This is one of my favorite ad spreads, so I thought I'd write on this one. I want to sincerely thank you for all of your patience with me and for trying to help me and understand me, especially when I was in a terrible mood. If it wasn't for you being our sponsor, staff would never be as effective for each person as it is. Staff has been a tremendous help to my growing up and becoming a bigger part of WHS. I don't guess I have been as efficient as previous ad editors, but you'll have to admit that the finished product is my best effort. Thanks for your dedication to staff at all times, even when your baby was on the way. I admire you trying to communicate with each member of staff and trying to have an individual relationship with each member (I didn't mean that to be nasty - ha ha!). Don't forget — I'm one of those radiant redheads! I'll be sure to come and see you next year when I come home from Madison. Good luck with the staff next year — I'm thinking you're going to need it! I guess they are kind of wild - but you'll have to admit that they were pretty good juniors for at least two weeks! I admire your unending "spunk" and drive for annual staff - if it wasn't for your guidance and helpful hints there wouldn't be as much enthusiasm toward staff. I owe you special thanks for helping me survive Miss Callahan and her "attitudes and opinions" toward "A" staff. I wish you the best of luck forever and ever!

Love always,
Donna

Genuine Thanks Magnify Editors' Appreciation

As the assistance and co-operation of many people is a necessary facet of recording all sides of life at Warwick, the 1969-70 editors would like to extend their gratitude to the following:

Mr. Starboard for essential typewriters, a shoulder to cry on, and the use of the intercom. Mr. Tudor and Miss Armistead for their co-operation and enthusiastic support.

The faculty members for allowing staffers and other students to leave class and for tolerating countless interruptions. The coaching staff for their patience in identifying pictures and providing scores and schedules, and the physical education teachers for enduring our noisy picture-taking sessions.

The office staff, especially Mrs. Rich for photostating proof sheets, Mrs. Murray for accurately counting piles and piles of money, and Mrs. Knies for her typewriter.

Our juniors for doing all the tedious chores and for burning the midnight oil with us to meet our deadlines.

Our hard-working staff photographers, Dale Diacont, Doug Cassidy, Randy Bryant, Chuck Martin, and especially senior Hugh Clark.

Our parents for transportation, food, emergency help, and for standing behind us throughout the year.

Brenda Stevens for chauffeuring while we took advertising pictures. The Pembroke cheerleaders for relieving us of our surplus pom-poms. Mr. Barton for loaning woodshop tools for fixing our cantankerous dryer. Archie and Sarge for mops, rags and wax to clean our messy staff room and for restoring our electricity.

Our advertising friends for their financial support and patronage.

Taylor Publishing Company and Gloria Weadock for their fine job in producing our yearbook, and especially for refusing to allow curiosity to kill the annual staff.

Danny Defalco and Bud Rose for their concern, advice, and smiling faces as they established communication between us and Taylor.

Mrs. Howell for sparing her husband especially when Beth was on the way.

Mr. Howell for all his help and understanding as we worked together through all sides of producing the 1970 WARWICK.

Outdoor Track — Tennis — Golf

Unproductive Span Promises Prospective Season Success

"Well, at least next year will have to be an improvement!" With a record of six defeats and no wins, the outdoor track team, coached by Mr. Jimmy Johnson, placed ninth in the Peninsula District. At the Hampton Institute Relays and the Peninsula Relays, WHS placed third in the distance medley and the sprint medley, respectively. Though the season was not successful in wins, it proved valuable in building up team experience for the 1971 season.

Achieving a record of five wins and five losses, the tennis team saw a productive season with the coaching of Mr. Tim Walter. In the district match, the Farmers placed third in doubles and sixth in singles.

Placing third in the district, the golf team had a successful season record of five wins and three losses. The players, under the guidance of Coach Wilbur Thompson, utilized the City Park course in both practice and in competition.

JV and Varsity Baseball — Archery

Overall Team Effort Exceeds Former Season's Attainment

Finishing the season with an 11-5 slate, the Varsity baseball team missed qualifying for the Peninsula District title. Under head Coach Jim Snow and the pitching of senior Ronnie Vick, the boys shut-out Huntington, York, Hampton, James Blair, and Carver. Ronnie completed the season with the most strikeouts and the lowest earn-run average in the district. Senior co-captains Jimmy Wright and John Hayes helped spur the team on to a winning season. The team ended up third in district competition, but with a better over-all record than the previous year.

Sophomore co-captains Greg Rayfield and Keith Wilson led the Junior Varsity baseball team to a successful 8-3 season. Coach Randy Harrell guided the team in three shut-out games against Pembroke, Carver, and Kecoughtan. In regular play, the boys gained valuable experience in developing their abilities towards future Varsity action.

Floral Fauna Fantasizes Ballroom's Entrance

"Wow, a bower of flower power!" Masses of varicolored blossoms portrayed the theme of "Floral Fantasy" at the Senior Prom. The music for the formal dance was provided by a soul group, "Maurice Williams and the Zodiacs," from North Carolina. Rodef Sholom Temple was decided as a location other than the cafeteria, and was decorated to carry out the prom theme. The entrance hall was transformed into a romantic garden, complete with blooming trees, wrought-iron seats, a reflecting pool, and a fountain. The predominant flowers were the daisy and the yellow rose, chosen by the class as the senior flowers. All those attending the prom were presented goblets inscribed with "Class of '70." During the evening, the names of the King and Queen were announced. Andy Shier and Tena Plott, having been selected by their classmates, were crowned by Mr. James Starboard. The royal couple then danced to the class song, "Born Free."

As Sherry Link places votes in the ballot box, Brenda Meredith watches while her date marks his choice of the King and Queen candidates.

Amused at being relieved for a short time, a member of the Zodiacs watches as Bill Lamkin entertains for the dancers.

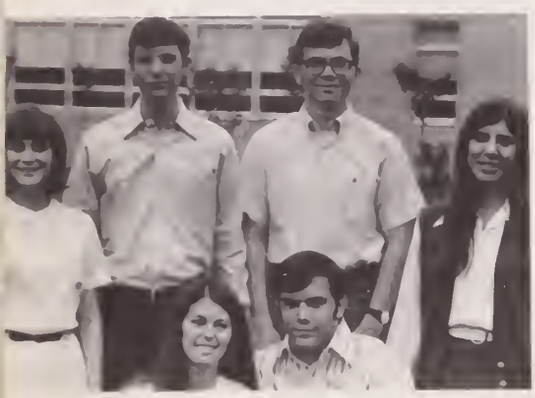
Sporting her costume designed to be a daisy, Julie Coblentz adds to the colorful atmosphere of the floral fantasy.

Preparing to place a decorative centerpiece on a table, Noleen Tew enacts the role of a daisy girl server complete with costume and petal headpiece.

Formally attired for the occasion, Diana Jackson becomes lost in thought in the ballroom filled with soul sounds.

Moving to the music of the soul band, Frankie Sublett dances with his partner in the center of the floor.

Individual senior classmen are David Dowdy and Judy Hamilton (Most Diligent Class Workers); Steve Carmean and Julia Hayes (Most Energetic); Susan Kuhns and Andy Lindsay (Most School Spirited); and Anne Burnette and Jimmy Kipper (Most Courteous).



Versatile seniors are Tena Plott and Andy Shier (Cutest); Coleman Walsh and Pat Hand (Most Intellectual); and John Townsend and Brenda Meredith (Best Looking).

Distinctive seniors include Hal Ginn and Bunny Smith (Most Original); Walter Mountcastle and Barbara Edberg (Most Talented); Gunilla Palmkvist (Honorary Superlative); Jerry Horrell and Brenda Stevens (Most Athletic); Glen Hudson and Jean Hamblin (Wittiest); and Henry Connell and Maryanne Adams (Best Dancers).

Sr. Banquet — Play

Class Colors Adorn Dinner Locale

"Hi, Teach! Hi, Pupe!" Relationships between students and teachers were shown at a humorously typical high school in the drama department's performance of "Up the Down Staircase." Directed by Mrs. Dorcas Smith, with the assistance of Miss Janet Watkins, the play was presented to the public May 13 and 14. To interest the student body in the production, the cast presented a portion of the play in an assembly May 13.

Steak dinners and the music of "The Royal VII" greeted the Class of '70 at the Senior Banquet. The banquet, organized by the sophomore class, was held April 18 in the cafeteria, which was decorated in the senior class colors of yellow and white. Col. Ellis C. Luck served as Master of ceremonies for the program. The highlight of the evening was the announcement of the Senior Superlatives by class sponsors Mr. Earl Barton and Mrs. Mary Deal.

Holding their prized superlative trophies, Tena Plott converses with Andy Shier about the ensuing banquet activities.

Unique Senior Superlatives are Pat Foretich and Sandy Oakes (Friendliest); Bob Fairbairn and Donna Forsyth (Most Likely to Succeed); Ronnie Gregory and Mary Albertson (Best Personality); Bill Cogbill and Renee Noland (Best All Around); and Kathy Coleman (Most Popular).

Entertaining fellow classmen, the members of the "Raw Guts Gang" harmonize as they present their repertoire of songs.

Presenting his own impersonation of a fellow American, Steve McGowan mimics with the infamous victory sign and humorous facial expressions.

Introducing the latest swimwear, models Jerry Horrell, Randy Jackson, Jim Snow, and Steve Pittman frolic before the Senior Day audience.

Standing before his class for a day, senior Michael Spade instructs a biology class from some readymade notes.

Sr. Day — Sr. Leadership Day

"Your grapefruits are crooked!" What nature forgot, grapefruits provided as talented senior boys modeled the latest women's styles in the Senior Day assembly. Bill Lamkin performed impressions, and "The Raw Guts Gang" sang to the class. Steve Carmean and David Dowdy presented the cut awards to their classmates. Miss Lois Callahan spoke to the Class of '70 about the individual and his responsibilities. The students ate a special lunch in the cafeteria, which was decorated in the class colors, yellow and white.

"Shut-up! I'm in command now!" Swollen heads of superiority appeared on Senior Leadership Day as members of the Class of '70 took over the jobs of the faculty and administration. The seniors volunteered for the jobs to learn the behind-the-scene realities of teaching and to see how "the other half lives." Their duties included preparing class schedules, administering quizzes, and disciplining students.

During the various Industrial Arts Fair awards presentations, woodshop teacher Mr. Barton bestows the treasured Golden Hammer honor upon Sophomore John Davenport as Kenny Underwood looks on.

Showing her jovial sense of humor, Miss Hundley, along with debater Ricky Butler, presents numerous Debate Team awards to the school for display beside other varied trophies.

At the Athletics Awards Assembly, Butch Merrill of the Monogram Club presents the Guy H. Quesenberry Cup to Randy Jackson.

As Mr. Starboard lines up the various band trophies, Mr. Smith, wearing his formal uniform, describes them to the audience.

As he proudly shows the student body the SCA Presidents' Plaque, Bill Cogbill displays his name added to the engravings.

Awards — Spoof Annual

'70 Class, Sponsor Receive Publication Acknowledgements

"Envelope, please. And the winner is . . ." Numerous presentations, some being surprises, were made at the academic awards assembly held May 22. The Grenadier and Maroon bands turned over to the school 12 trophies won in parades. The awards won by wood and metalshop students at the annual Industrial Arts Fair were announced by Mr. Earl Barton and Mr. Charles Brown. Coleman Walsh presented the Key Club Citizenship Award to senior Bob Fairbairn.

Dedications of the publications were made during the year. The EARLE was dedicated to Miss Waverly Hundley.

The annual staff dedicated the WARWICK to Mr. Earl Barton, while the two issues of the PLOUGH were dedicated to Mr. Curtis Campbell and the Class of '70, respectively.

For the first time in several years, the senior class published a spoof annual. Edited by Barbara Edberg, the book provided a humorous glimpse of life at Warwick.

Addressing the graduation assembly, SCA President Bill Cogbill speaks about the future from the podium.

As Mr. Starboard officially presents his long-awaited diploma, Eddie Waddy solemnly exchanges a congratulatory handshake.

Donned in traditional caps and gowns, the graduated seniors rise to sing the Alma Mater facing the front stage.

Directing his final words to the Class of '70, Mr. Starboard, in cap and gown, speaks in front of the graduation audience.

Graduation

Diploma Accompanies Climactic Glory

"Parting is such sweet sorrow . . ." As the Class of '70 marched into the auditorium to the dignified strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," played by the Grenadier Band, parental tears were shed in the background. Senior Class President Helen McAtamney's welcome to the audience was followed by the invocation, delivered by James Kipper, SCA chaplain. Helen spoke to the class on the topic "Where We Have Been," after which Bill Cogbill, SCA president, commented on "Where We Are Going." The major speaker of the day was Mr. Barclay Sheaks, departing head of the art department. Mr. James Starboard bestowed their diplomas upon the graduates, the culmination of their high school achievements. The A Cappella Choir, accompanied by John Rappold, sang "No Man Is an Island." They then led the seniors in "Born Free," the class song, and the final singing of the Alma Mater.

Also leaving Warwick, Mr. Sheaks delivers his speech to the departing seniors.

Past Molds Future Trials

Reminiscence

And so we came seeking knowledge and truth . .
inside a book,
among our friends,
within a room.

We walked slowly . . .
shocked by hypocrisy,
angered by injustice,
and
wounded by our own imperfections.

Determined, we ran ahead . . .
to cross every line,
test every rule,
and
condemn every wrong we saw.
Reflecting, we found it was not enough to condemn a wrong
without doing something about it.

So as we leave
we ponder the truth we found
among our friends,
inside a book,
but most of all, within ourselves.
